I. CAGAYAN DE ORO CITY PUBLIC LIBRARY BRIEF PROFILE AND HISTORY

The Cagayan de Oro City Public Library, formerly known as the "Bureau of Public Libraries Cagayan de Oro", was established on March 26, 1950, with Ms. Luz Camacho as the first City Librarian.

It was more than two (2) months before the elevation of Cagayan de Oro de Misamis into a chartered city when the Bureau of Public Libraries (now known as City Public Library) opened its doors to the public. Its first location was in a wooden building of Puericulture Center (today's Maternity and Child Hospital Building) along Gaerlan corner Rizal Streets, fronting the Gaston Park and adjacent to the Cagayan de Oro City Hall.

Initially, it ran with an annual budget of Php9,200.00, while most of the books and other materials were supplied annually from the National Library of the Philippines.

Free access to various books and other library materials, as well as free reading of local and national newspapers through its periodical section, were among the first services offered during the early years of the City Public Library.

Sometime in May 1955, City Mayor Justiniano Borja himself visited the Public Library to personally see the operational set-up of the newly opened library.

In a turn of events, the City Public Library was transferred momentarily to a new location: on the second floor of the old Liceo de Cagayan Building at the corner of Gaerlan Street along the perimeter road of the Gaston Park, adjacent to its original location. The library was later transferred to the Casino Building, the present site of today's Veterans Bank Building in Divisoria.

In 1974, it was transferred to a two-story wooden building along Mabini corner Velez streets with Mr. Erdelindo Cua as OIC City Librarian in lieu of Mrs. Luz Camacho, who had reached her retirement age.

On April 1, 1975, Mrs. Myra F. Acedera took the reins as the New City librarian.

The City Public Library's stay along Mabini-Velez Streets was short-lived as the New City Librarian brought the City Public Library to its new home at the Girl Scout building, adjacent to the Marcos Sports Center (now Pelaez Sports Center) along Don Apolinar Velez Street.

In 1986, the Cagayan de Oro City Public Library finally found its permanent home after the City Government of Cagayan de Oro, under the Administration of City Mayor Pablo P. Matajas, constructed a two-story concrete building adjacent to the City Central School along the same street of Don Apolinar Velez.

The newly constructed City Public Library building not only housed the increasing volumes of books and other library materials, but also provided conducive parking spaces for the service vehicles of the Library patrons.

Due to increasing volumes of books, documents, old newspapers, and other library materials that were extremely rare and in danger of being destroyed, the microfilm archiving system was implemented in the Mid 1990's using microfilm as a way of storing many documents in a small space.

With this, a device called a microfilm reader that was used in projecting and magnifying the stored images in the microfilm was made available to library researchers who want to view the archived documents.

In 1996, the computerization program was put into operation in response to the growing need of hastening the delivery of prime services to the public.

It further delivered efficient services in the year 2000, wherein the library card catalog system was replaced by the Online Public Access Catalog (OPAC).

The establishment of the Electronic Library (E-Lib) on November 17, 2005, has widened the City Public Library's horizon by providing readers access to the National Government agencies such as the National Library of the Philippines, University of the Philippines, Department of Agriculture, and the Department of Science and Technology, having electronic journals and electronic books (e-books).

In 2007, as an addition to the various windows of knowledge offered by the City Public Library, researchers started to enjoy viewing the Discovery and knowledge channel from the local cable TV provider for free through a 23-inch TV monitor placed in a secluded area of the library.

This TV monitor channel was also tuned in occasionally during the nationwide telecast of the president's state of the nation address and the local government's big events such as the city fiesta, civic military and the fluvial parade.

On September 13, 2008, city librarian Mrs Myrna F. Acedera handed down her seat to her successor Ms. Lorna Ch. Regalado after more than three decades of leadership in the city public library.

Four years later, city librarian Ms. Lorna Ch. Regalado was succeeded by Mrs. Charito B. Villalobos after the latter's retirement on October 29, 2012.

On August 13, 2013, Mrs Loreta Deloso assumed the City librarian's position after City librarian Mrs Villalobos retired from the service.

In the light of the fast-changing landscape of technological advancement, the Cagayan de Oro City Public Library in partnership with the Department of Science and Technology, established the Starbook in June 2014, to provide researchers with the most comprehensive information in the field of science and technology.

In the same year, a new fleet of computer sets was also added to the existing computer units in response to the increasing numbers of online researchers as well as to further equip the library's workforce.

Consequently, the processing of the city library membership I.D was also hastened, wherein a digital photo of the applicant will be taken through a computerized procedure and it will be given to the applicant within a span of 10 minutes only.

A separate room for the children's library has been allocated to cater the young generation and encourage them to use the library at its early age and teach them on how to use the library's resources

It also aims to give children an opportunity to experience the enjoyment of reading, storytelling, and discovering knowledge.

Young researchers aged 3 and above are also provided with a wide range of children's books as well as audio-visual materials for the development of their potential.

The problem of the occasional mutilation of pages of books and newspapers has been finally addressed through the installation of the closed-circuit television (CCTV) device within the library's reading area and periodical section area

Through this, responsibilities of mutilating the books and or newspaper pages can easily be traced through this system.

It also monitored the safety of deposited bags and belongings in the baggage counter.

In the year 2016, the city public library became one of the centers of the department of information and communication technology (DICT) for its technology for economic development program (TECH4ED).

A one-stop shop center that aims to provide free services to everyone through information and communication technology (ICT) enabled services.

That includes: eEduskills, which provides non-formal education and skills training, eAssist, which provides access to special content, eAgri for advanced farming technology, eMarketplace for online business transactions and job opportunities, and eGovserv, which provides more convenient access to various government services.

In November of the same year, the local history section was opened to the public, which offers information of the city's early beginnings, past events, notable city personalities, socio-economic development, and from being a juvenile city to who it is today.

The project aimed to collect historical data of the respective participating cities all over the country which will be compiled into one book and copies are to be distributed to all city public libraries in the country.

As part of the city government's effort in enhancing the efficient delivery of services to the public, a manual of the citizens' charter has been made visible along the entranceway of the city library.

It aims to give the public a guide on the step-by-step procedure in availing the library's various services.

Nowadays, in line with the national government's trust of extending WiFi services to the people that is free of charge, a WiFi zone within the library premises has been activated to serve the city public library patrons better.

II. LEGAL MANDATES

The legal basis for the establishment, organization, and functions of the Cagayan de Oro City Public Library is supported by the following legislation:

This primary law establishes the Intellectual Property Office (IPOPLI) and provides a comprehensive framework for protecting various intellectual property rights like patents, trademarks, copyrights, and industrial designs in the country, aiming to foster innovation and creativity. The Cagayan de Oro City Public Library's collection development is guided by the Local Government Unit's RISE AGENDA, the CPL's vision, and book allocations from the National Library of the Philippines, aiming to support the community's needs through a collection of physical and digital resources, selected and maintained to address the information needs of Cagayan de Oro's diverse community as such:

1. Developing a balanced and diverse collection reflecting the city's cultural, educational, and informational needs;
 - a. To acquire materials in order to support the community needs.
 - b. To coordinate with the National Library of the Philippines regarding the distribution of book allocations and other resources.
 - c. To process book donations that relate to the core selection policy of the library.
2. Providing resources supporting lifelong learning, literacy, and civic engagement;
 - a. To provide network and linkages with libraries in other institutions, government agencies as well as public and private libraries in order to enhance the library's potential to

- serve its patrons through possible resource sharing and services.
- b. To provide bibliographic tools and resources that will identify materials matching the existing informational needs.
- 3. Ensuring access to current, accurate, and authoritative information;
 - a. To assist patrons in realizing their specific needs for information
 - b. Fostering critical thinking and media literacy through quality collections

11.3.2 - LIBRARY MATERIALS SELECTION AND ACQUISITION POLICIES

The Cagayan de Oro City Public Library shall strive to collect library resources with the following format of books and other print resources; non-print materials, audio-visual resources, digital, online resources and databases.

11.3.2.1 - Scope of the collection

2. Archives
3. Children's, Teens, and Young Adult Books
4. Circulation
5. Fiction Books
6. Filipiniana

7. Filipiniana - Local Collection
8. Periodicals/Serials
9. References
10. Theses/Dissertations
11. Digital collections

11.3.2.2 - Selection Responsibility

Selection of library materials is a collaborative effort, with assigned librarians and staff in each section taking the lead in identifying and recommending resources that support their section's needs. They are encouraged to actively participate in the selection process, considering factors like relevance, accuracy, quality, and copyright. Community recommendations are also valued and considered. Final decisions on collection development align with the library's overall direction, resting with the library administration.

11.3.2.3 Procedure in the Selection / Acquisition Process

The Cagayan de Oro City Public Library strictly complies with the policies and procedures that are anchored in R.A 9184 or the "Government Procurement Reform Act" of 2016. Moreover, the CPL applies the following procedure of library materials through local government purchase:

1. The technical librarian must first facilitate the preparation of the selection by collecting or pre-canvassing from various establishments and preparing purchase requests for print and non-print resources.
2. These pre-canvas catalogs and checklists of books are sent to the assigned sections of the library for them to examine current publishers' catalogs.
3. The assigned section librarian checks the titles according to priority based on their needs and submits them back to the technical services section.
4. When requesting materials for purchase, the following information must be provided:

- | | |
|---|----------------------------|
| a) Title | e) Publisher |
| b) Author | f) Source or dealer |
| c) Edition (if other than the first) | g) Number of copies |
| d) Publication or copyright | h) ISBN |

5. The requested titles are checked against the library's holdings to avoid duplication.
6. If the material requested is an exact duplicate in terms of content and edition, the section head will be notified.
7. Final lists prioritizing the needs of each section are compiled.

8. Submit the document for signature of the Budget Officer and Department Head
9. Forward to BAC to prepare contract for procurement (request quotation, abstract of bids)
10. The end-user canvasser goes to different eligible establishments to request quotations and submits the documents to BAC, so they are aware of eligible suppliers that can comply with the request for quotation.
11. BAC awards the contract to the responsive and eligible suppliers.
12. CGSO prepares the purchase order, which is approved and then delivered to the responsive supplier/establishment.
13. The supplier delivers the items within the agreed delivery period to the CGSO inspection and acceptance section.
14. Inspectors, together with the end user, evaluate and cross-check each item against the stipulated specifications in the purchase order to confirm compliance with specifications and quantities.
15. CGSO prepares an inspection and acceptance report, and the End User (CPL) prepares a disbursement voucher for payment.
16. The END USER (CAGAYAN DE ORO CITY PUBLIC LIBRARY) receives the item.

11.3.2.4 Materials to be Acquired

The Cagayan de Oro City Public Library should plan to acquire library materials within its financial capabilities, as reflected in the MOOE budget. In this context, the library will obtain materials such as books, periodicals, general references, pamphlets, computer files, and possibly procure E-Resources.

Limitations. Due to financial constraints, it is unlikely that the Cagayan de Oro City Public Library will be able to fully fulfill the above statement. Therefore, the library will implement certain limitations regarding the procurement of library materials such as:

1. When lack of funds limit the acquisitions to current publications.
2. If materials are too expensive, the same title or concept will be given higher priority.
3. Filipiniana and children's collections will be given higher priority.

11.3.3 Guide to the Scope, Coverage or Levels of Collecting Intensities of the Library Collection

The scope of the collection refers to the range of subjects collected by the Cagayan de Oro City Public Library, while the coverage pertains to the depth or intensity of collecting efforts within a subject area. The CPL builds its collection to sustain the core strengths of the library's holdings. Additionally, it assesses the status of various subject areas to identify those that need improvement. As a result, the library will be able to provide clients with a balanced selection of print and non-print collections.

The following levels indicate the degree of coverage within a subject by the COCPL:

+ Levels of Collecting Intensity Explanation +

0 - Out of Scope. The subject is not collected.

1 - Minimal Level. A subject area in which few selections are made beyond very basic works.

2 - Basic Level. A highly selective collection which serves to introduce and define the subject and to indicate the varieties of information available elsewhere. It includes major dictionaries and encyclopedias, selected editions of important works, historical surveys, important bibliographies, and a few major periodicals in the field.

3 - Initial Level. A collection which is adequate to support undergraduate courses. It includes a judicious selection from currently published basic monographs (as are represented by Choice selections) supported by seminal retrospective monographs (as are represented by Books for College Libraries); a broad selection of works of more important writers; a selection of the major review journals; and current editions of the most significant reference tools and bibliographies pertaining to the subject.

- 4 - Study Level. A collection which supports undergraduate or graduate course work, or sustained independent study; that is, which is adequate to maintain knowledge of a subject required for limited or generalized purposes, of less than research intensity. It includes a wide range of basic monographs, complete collections of the works of important writers, a selection of representative journals, and the reference tools and fundamental bibliographical apparatus pertaining to the subject.
- 5 - Advanced Study Level. A collection which is adequate to support the course work of advanced undergraduate and master's degree programs, or sustained independent study; this is, which is adequate to maintain knowledge of a subject required for limited or generalized purposes, of less than research intensity. It includes a wide range of primary resources, basic monographs both current and retrospective, complete collections of the works of more important writers, selections from the works of secondary writers, a selection of representative journals, and the reference tools and fundamental bibliographical apparatus pertaining to the subject.
- 6 - Research Level. A collection which includes the major source materials required for dissertations and independent research, including materials containing research reporting, new findings, scientific experimental results, and other information useful to researchers. It also includes all important reference works and a wide selection of specialized monographs, as well as a very extensive collection of journals and major indexing and abstracting services in the field.

- 7 - Comprehension Level. A collection in which a library endeavors, so far as is reasonably possible, to include all significant works of recorded knowledge (publications, manuscripts, other forms), in all applicable languages, for a necessarily defined and limited field. This level of collecting intensity is that which maintains a "special collection"; the aim, if not the achievement, is exhaustiveness.

Based from "Guidelines for the Formulation of Collection Development Policies." Library Resources and Technical Services, v.21, no.1 (Winter 1977).

11.3.4 Policies for donations, gifts, and exchange.

Organizations and individuals are strongly encouraged to donate books and other library materials to the library. Typically, the staff of the Cagayan de Oro City Public Library accepts donations from various donors through the following methods:

11.3.4.1 Acceptance criteria

The general policy of Cagayan de Oro City Public Library is to accept all donated books regardless of their year of publication. However, the received books will be carefully evaluated and categorized based on their suitability for various purposes. Books deemed appropriate for the main collection will be integrated into the CPL's library holdings. Those that align with the barangay reading center's needs may be endorsed for inclusion in their collections. Additionally, suitable materials may be donated to KSB services to promote community literacy and educational programs.

11.3.5 Library Holdings

11.3.5.1 Total number of collections

Area (Location)	2025	2026
Children's Library	1,306 volumes	1,371 volumes
Main Library (Reference Books, Circulation Books, Reserved Books, Filipiniana Books, Fiction Books, and Theses	3,945 volumes	2,799 volumes
Displayed Books (Open Shelves) Total:	5,251 volumes	4,170 volumes
Sacks/Boxes	6,101 volumes	1,531 volumes	The storage room contains a total of 7,632 books.
Total Library Holdings	11,352 Volumes	11,802 volumes

Based on physical counts, a total of 5,125 book volumes were recorded in 2025, while 4,170 volumes were counted in 2026. The decrease in 2026 is due to the library's decision to weed out certain books from its collection, which is why the physical count was lower. In 2026, the library's total holdings are 11,802 books, including 450 newly processed titles added. The recently weeded books, totaling 1,531, are being considered for redistribution - either reading centers or for retention within the core collection of the library.

3.6 - Weeding of Library Materials Policy

3.6.1 - Principle in Weeding Library Materials

To maintain a lively and effective collection, some materials will be taken off the shelves. The librarian will be responsible for assessing the usefulness of the current collection. The removal of specific materials will follow these established guidelines:

1. Last date of circulation - If the material has not been used for the past ten years or has not circulated twice in the past two years, the material is weeded.
2. Physical condition - If the physical condition of the book is bad, this has to be weeded. A decision must be made whether to replace it or not, depending on the needs.
3. Timeliness - Older editions are no longer useful.

4. Reliability - Materials or titles that support outdated views and contain unreliable information. Ephemera - Fad literature and titles which do not circulate and no longer timely should be weeded.

3.6.2 - What not to Weed

Materials which contain the following are retained by the library:

1. Out-of-Print - Materials which are out of print, even with a least likelihood of being used, should be retained.
2. Local History - No matter what the conditions of the material or its use, most local history sources are retained by the library.
3. Balance - When the weeding of a title will throw off the balance of a subject area in the collection, the material must be retained.
4. Listing - If the material is listed in the standard current bibliography the materials must be retained.

3.6.3 - Audit Guidelines on the Disposal of Property and other Assets of National Government Agencies and Instrumentalities, Local Government Units and Government-Owned or Controlled Corporation and their Subsidiaries (COA Circular No.89-296, January 27, 1989)

When disposing of Library resources that are no longer useful or functional, the library shall follow the guidelines set by the Commission of Audit for the divestment or disposal of its properties and assets. This ensures uniformity and consistency in audit procedures and facilitates the auditing process across all national government agencies and instrumentalities regarding the disposal of property and other assets. (COA Circular No.89-296, January 27, 1989).Moreover,

Books eligible for removal may possibly be transferred to the barangay reading center at no charge.

11.3.7 - Technical Processing of Library Materials

11.3.7.1 Property tagging by the CGSO

Once the CGSO department has verified the books, they are required to affix a property tag at the front of each book to indicate that ownership belongs to the city government. Additionally, the memorandum of receipt has been followed to ensure we obtain a copy of the books.

11.3.7.2 Mechanical processing of library materials

The mechanical procedures involved in processing library materials include stamping ownership marks, entering barcodes, attaching book pockets, assigning call numbers, covering the books, and preparing endorsement labels.

11.3.7.3 In -house accessioning of the newly acquired books and donations.

There are distinct accession records for general collections and fiction books. The accession numbering follows a format based on the year of processing, for example, 2026-0001. For 2027, the sequence should reset to 2027-0001. This method facilitates easy statistical tracking each year.

3.7.4 Cataloging and Classification Procedure:

- a. The library adheres to the basic principles of traditional practices as set by the following standard codes:
 - i. Dewey Decimal Classification and Relative Index
 - ii. Anglo-American Cataloging Rules, 1989, Edition 20
 - iii. Resource Descriptive Cataloging (RDA)
 - iv. Cutter-Sanborn Three Figure Author Table
 - v. ALA Filing Rules (1980)
- b. The library does original cataloging for library materials without CIP
- c. Copylogging is done when the bibliographic description can be available and downloaded through access to Z39.50. Information Retrieval Protocol and may be modified to conform with the policies used for original cataloging

d. Original cataloging practices generally involve the following steps:

- i. Selecting the main entry
- ii. Deciding added entries
- iii. Recording the elements in bibliographic description selecting appropriate subject entries using the Sears list of Subject Headings, and the library's subject authority file.
- iv. Classifying the book according to the Dewey Decimal Classification System.
- v. Encoding in the computer catalog.

e. The complete process of establishing author and title entries (for original cataloging) are subdivided into these steps:

- i. Selecting the main entry
- ii. Establishing the correct form of name for the main entry
- iii. Deciding what added entries should be made for other persons or corporate bodies associated with the material
- iv. Establishing the correct form of name for each of the additional entries
- v. Deciding what cross-references need to be made for alternative forms of the names selected in steps

- vi. Deciding whether entry should be made for the title.
- vii. If the book is part of a series, decide whether an entry for the title of the series should be made
- viii. If the book consists of a number of parts, deciding whether any part is important enough to warrant a separate author and title entry.

3.7.4.1 Descriptive Cataloging

The code adopted by the library for descriptive cataloging is the Anglo-American Cataloging Rules. The following practices are generally used.

a. Form of name

Accept the form of name given on the title page, unless the author is already listed in different ways in the catalog. When there is a choice to be made between forms of name or when there is a question as to which element of the name should be the entry point, consult encyclopedias, biographical dictionaries, and other tools to determine the form of name most frequently used. An attempt should be made to keep together all the works of an author.

A name authority file is maintained on 3x5 cards. This file shall consist of name headings used for problem names, prolific writers, and the cross references made to them from other forms. It also provides the call number used for all the works of an author.

Filipino surnames with prefixes are usually entered under the element by which they are more commonly or popularly known, unless identified otherwise in reference sources.

b. Cross references

Whenever a form of name significantly different from that on the title page is used for an entry, a cross reference is made.

After it has been decided that a name receives a cross-reference, the catalog or name authority file is checked for that cross-reference, which may have already been made.

Compound surnames, names with prefixes and names not entered under the last element also require cross references.

Related headings may be tied together by references.

Cross-references should be recorded so that they can be removed from the catalogs when books are withdrawn and entries to which the cross references refer are removed from the catalogs.

c. Added Entries

Do not routinely make added entries for joint authors, translators, illustrators, or editors. Make entries using the following guidelines:

- i. Editors or compilers - If a collection of stories, poems, or articles by different authors is entered under title, an added entry is made.
- ii. Translators - An added entry is made for the translators only if the translation is in verse or if the work has been previously translated by many different translators.

- iii. Illustrators - Added entries are not made for illustrators unless the illustrations are important features of the item.

At least one personal name entry is made for materials whose main entries are under corporate names, titles, or special headings.

When the main entry is not under the name of the corporate body that had responsibility for the content of the work, as opposed to being only the publisher or issuing body, an added entry should be made for the corporate body.

d. Title

Make a title entry for all materials.

Title entries are not made for materials titled as Collected work, Letters, Poems, and Bulletin, because they are not meaningful without the author's names. Title entries are not made for materials with titles that consist solely of the names of people.

The wording of the title is generally that which is found on the title page of the material being cataloged.

Capitalization of the title follows the capitalization rules presented in Appendix B of AACR2R2.

e. Series

If a series can be cataloged as a collected set under one call number, list the volumes together on the card. Make an added entry for each of the titles in the series. Scattered volumes are recorded similarly.

If a series is cataloged under separate call numbers, maintain one series entry, listing down the volumes and their corresponding call numbers.

No series entry is made for the publisher's series.

A series authority file should be maintained in the "computer catalog".

f. Publisher

The Publisher's name is not necessarily recorded in the complete form used on the title page.

Phrases and terms such as "an company" "Inc.", "Ltd.", and other initial articles are omitted.

Forenames and initials of well-known publishers are omitted.

g. Date

Record the date appearing on the title page or the latest copyright date, if there is no publication date.

h. Edition

Successive editions are recorded. The customary way of recording successive editions is; 2nd ed., 3rd ed., rev. ed., etc.

i. Illustrations

The abbreviation "ill." is used for illustrations in the book.

Colored illustrations are recorded as 'co. Ill.', "ill. (some col.)", "all col.", as the case may be.

Colored illustrations and special types of illustrations (maps, plates, ports, etc.) are specifically designated.

3.7.4.2 Assigning Subject Headings

The Sears List of Subject Headings, as well as the subject authority file are used to assign subject headings.

1. Subject headings are never assigned on the basis of titles alone. To determine the subject content of the book, the title page, the table of contents, and as much of the preface, introduction, and text are read as is necessary to grasp the substance and intent of the book.
2. Not all books need subject headings, e.g., fiction, poetry, letters, essays, and general writings of individual authors, which are usually sought under the author's name or title. However, if it is considered useful, a subject heading is assigned, e.g., historical and biographical novels.

3. Select headings as specific as the books themselves. If no specific headings is available, select two or more headings, each of which brings out one aspect of the subject.
4. When a book covers two or three specific subjects, make separate headings for each subject. However, if many different subjects are included in a book, a broad heading covering all of them is selected.
5. Use subdivisions according to the directions in the authorized lists.
6. To maintain control over use of subject headings and references, make checkmarks on the headings and the references in the authorized lists being used. Headings not provided in the lists are written on the spaces provided for.
7. Consult the catalogs whenever necessary to determine library practice and maintain consistency.

3.7.4.3 Classification

The Library uses the Dewey Decimal Classification system for organizing its collection.

1. The first step in classifying a book is to attempt the location of ready-made classification numbers like the Cataloging in Publication (CIP), American Book Publishing Record (ABRP), and Philippine National Bibliography (PNB). Classification numbers located in these sources are evaluated for agreement with the numbers used or subject areas maintained by the library;
2. If no classification can be located, the classifier examines the book and makes a judgment as to its subject content as well as the author's intent.
3. After an opinion as to the nature of the book, consult the classification Index for the appropriate number. It is desirable to check the shelf list to determine if similar books are shelved in the same area or to look under the appropriate subject headings in the subject catalog to identify if the classification number has been used for the subject;

4. If a book has more than one subject, the first subject is the one that usually corresponds to the classification number.

3.7.4.4 - Computerized Processing (IN-HOUSE ILS) - adding new books/ bibliographic records

The In-House Integrated Library System is still work on progress..... functioning soon... revealed soon...However, the books released by the technical section and endorsed to the section libraries are being organized and stored in a single file according to their date of endorsement.

3.8 Preservation Policy.

The Cagayan de Oro City Public Library is dedicated to developing collections for the benefit of the future researchers. The Library is committed to ensuring long-term access to its collections and their intellectual content by implementing a preservation program.

This program is designed to properly care for and extend the lifespan of books and other library materials, serving the needs of the community. By adopting and actively enforcing this program, the library aims to foster respect for its collections, minimize physical deterioration, and preserve materials through preventive and corrective measures. These measures include proper handling by both library staff and users. Additionally, our library's valuable collection includes historical records of the city, ordinances, and writings by city officials.

Preservation means protecting library materials by storing them carefully to prevent damage. Conservation means fixing and caring for the items to keep them in good condition.

The following are the guiding principles and elements in the preservation of library materials.

1. Identify material requiring preservation measures such as rare books, out of print titles of Filipiniana, and local collections.
2. Evaluate and improve the physical care of library materials by repairing and mending pages which require such treatment.
3. After the book is used by the reader and found to be damaged or deteriorated, set it aside for repair and conservation.
4. When some pages of the book are missing and another copy is available the missing pages shall be replaced with photocopies and inserted in the missing pages portion.
5. Education, training, and orientation shall be provided to the staff and students so that they will be educated in the proper handling of the library materials.
6. Wide dissemination of information on the proper care and handling of library materials shall be conducted by the library.

11.4 – Policies for the use of non-book library materials and Library facilities

11.4.1 - Use of computers and Internet services

1. All library users must fill out the internet services log book.
2. Once permitted, the library staff will assist the library user on any available computer.
3. All library users are given a maximum of 30 minutes, but this is subject to extension if no users sign up for the next use.
4. Library users are expected to handle the computer hardware with care.
5. It is the responsibility of the library users to surf the internet safely, keeping in mind not to download and/or enter harmful websites that may contain virus/malware/ or phishing applications to the computer's software
6. If there are interruptions in internet connectivity, hardware or software malfunction, or power interruption, the time allotted for the library user's use of the computer will be adjusted
7. Library users are not allowed to use the internet for online and offline games, and/or visit obscene websites or web content.
